

Sound or Word

This document tests your student's ability to differentiate between a sound and a word using single letters as the differentiator. Use this test as a baseline to determine if your student understands the concept words being a group of letters that make a sound.

For example if the document states point to the letter B and say "Is this a word or a letter?" Wait for the student to respond.

"B"

"bee"

Then point to "bee" and say "Is this a word or a letter?" Wait for the student to respond.

By administering this test you should be able to determine your student's readiness to learn words. If the child gets any incorrect answers that might be a sign of a learning disability.
